As part of the Prevention Matters series, the Local Government Association (LGA) has developed an advanced one day training workshop to enable elected members to consider their progress in implementing their prevention plans.

The Prevention Matters Plus workshop provides an opportunity to consider practical issues affecting your council policies and plans to improve the health and wellbeing of your residents.

This workshop considers the national and local context of prevention and reducing health inequalities, enabling elected members to consider ways of increasing the impact of their local plans.

Who is the workshop for?

Building on the successful Prevention Matters training, we have designed an advanced facilitated workshop with content aimed at elected members from all types of councils and in any role. We will run the workshop with a facilitator free of charge, the participating council/s will need to source a venue.

The workshop can be tailored to your area's requirements and can be for whole councils, regional groupings, district councils or joint training sessions across more than one local authority area. The sessions are open to all councillors and not just health and wellbeing board (HWB) members or portfolio leads.

What does the workshop include?

The training includes:

- an overview of national policy drivers including the NHS Long term Plan
 - an understanding of the evidence base for tackling health inequalities
 - the health challenges for local residents and the local strategies developed to tackle them
 - overview of Population Health Management
 - explore opportunities to improve progress
 - consider action that elected members can take to be more effective champions for health
 - an exploration of your own ward health profiles.

This workshop builds on the successful Prevention Matters workshops. How has the Prevention Matters workshop helped elected members?
