

The new Government's policy agenda - implications for PCCs and panels

Susannah Hancock

Vice Chair APAC²E

Chief Executive, Office of the Police and Crime
Commissioner for Essex

Outline

- Understanding Government policy intentions
- Understanding PCC policy ambitions
- Interface between the two
- Gaps and opportunities
- Implications for PCPs

PCCs – an expanding role

- 5 years in – maturing and developing role
- New legislation – Policing and Crime Act 2017
- Devolution
- Existing legislation / PCC convening powers

PCCs – an expanding role

Systems leadership:

The collaborative leadership of a network of people in different places and at different levels in the system, creating a shared endeavour and co-operating to make a significant change.

PCCs – an expanding role

Expanding opportunities for PCCs using new or existing powers:

- Mayors and devolution
- Fire
- CJS
- Prisons
- Youth Justice
- CT and Prevent
- Victims and RJ commissioning
- CSPs
- Vulnerability
- Police Complaints role - 2018

PCCs – an expanding role: opportunities and implications

- Move to police, crime, fire, community safety and criminal justice strategic plans
- Budgets – current and future funding streams, pooling, co-commissioning, shared/joint plans
- OPCC Resources - small teams, staff knowledge and skills, co-location
- Interface with other agencies
- Working across the local system

PC Panel - Implications

- Expanded PCP role – i.e. Fire
- Wider scrutiny powers / skill sets and experience e.g. CJS, Fire, CSPs?
- Performance; ethics; resources; collaboration
- Shaping the future agenda